ABSTRACT

At the Women’s Legal Centre, we understand that accessing these services can be a complex and confusing mission that often has a negative impact on the ability to make informed and autonomous decisions. This document aims to provide essential information on your rights to an abortion, where to find legal service providers, how to identify illegal abortion facilities, illegal abortion providers, and pregnancy crisis centres. It includes details on the risks associated with illegal abortions, the indicators of illegal clinics, and resources to help protect your right to access.

SECTION 1: ABORTION RIGHTS

1.1 INTRODUCTION

Abortions or Terminations of pregnancies are legal in South Africa.

Unfortunately, most women in their diversity do not know that it's their right to access this service, they don't know where to access these services safely and they don't have enough information about what a safe, positive and affirming access experience should be, in order to identify when their right to such an experience has been violated or obstructed.

1.2 UNDERSTANDING ABORTION LAWS

The right to access safe and legal abortion is part of a right referred to as Reproductive Rights in our constitution and Reproductive Rights are Human Rights.

Under The Choice of Termination of Pregnancy & the National Health Acts, abortions have been legal in South Africa since 1996.

According to South African national laws:

The decision to or to not have children is part of a woman's right to access reproductive healthcare services and this decision must be respected and protected by the government and healthcare providers.

Public health facilities must provide free abortion services to all women, regardless of their background or identity. This means that:

- Age: Abortion services are free for all ages, including those under 18. No one, not even your parents, can prevent you from having an abortion if it's your decision.
- Documentation: Whether you're a South African citizen, migrant, refugee, or asylum seeker, you can receive free services.
- Gender and Sexuality: Free services are available to everyone, regardless of where you fall on the gender or sexuality spectrum and should be provided in an affirming environment.
- Economic status & Occupation: Your job or profession doesn't affect your right to free abortion services.

1.3 WHAT STANDARD SHOULD YOU EXPECT YOUR ABORTION EXPERIENCE TO MEET?

- Hospital staff including administrative workers, pharmacists, security personnel, and healthcare providers are required to assist you in accessing abortion services. They cannot refuse you access.
- Only your permission is needed to proceed.
- Your personal information cannot be shared by anyone without your consent.
- You have the right to be fully informed about your rights, the services available to you, and where you can access those services.
- Counselling, which is not a requirement, must be safe, non-judgemental, supportive and free from stigma, discrimination and personal views.
- There is no legal limit on the number of abortions a person can have in South Africa.

1.4. HOW TO ACCESS FREE, SAFE AND LEGAL ABORTION SERVICES IN SOUTH AFRICA

To access abortion services, visit your local primary healthcare clinic where they will:

- Confirm your pregnancy with a urine test.
- Offer counselling services (only if you choose to receive it).
- Schedule an appointment for the abortion at that facility or provide a referral letter to another public health clinic or hospital where the procedure can be done.

If you are HIV positive, it's important to inform your healthcare provider. They may need to give you antibiotics during the procedure to ensure your safety and health.

The law says health workers MUST inform you of your rights and MUST refer you to a public health clinic or hospital where you can get these services. Health workers CANNOT refuse to help you have an abortion for any reason.

Where else can you get a safe abortion?

- Private doctors and non-profit organisations, trained and qualified to perform abortions also offer safe and legal procedures.
- Note: Private facilities and organisations charge fees, which can sometimes be thousands of rands.

1.5. WHEN CAN YOU GET AN ABORTION?

All women have the right to access free, safe, and legal abortions at government hospitals or clinics during the first three months of pregnancy.

In this early stage, an abortion can be performed by a doctor, a trained registered nurse, or a midwife, making it easier to access the procedure.

Timing is crucial — the further along the pregnancy is, the harder it becomes to access abortion services.

| Timeline for pregnancy                       | Conditions in order to have abortion  | Procedure   | Abortion performed by:                                   |
|--|---|---|--|
| 1st TrimesterFirst 12 weeks of pregnancy | No conditions – available on request  | Medically through the use of 2 pills: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• mifepristone</li> <li>• misoprostol</li> </ul> | DoctorTrained Registered NurseRegistered Midwife |
| 2nd Trimester13 - 20 weeks of pregnancy  | Abortion available under the following conditions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Rape or incest</li> <li>• Danger to your mental or physical health</li> <li>• If the pregnancy would significantly affect your economic or social circumstances.</li> </ul> | Surgical  | Doctor only  |
| After 20 weeks of pregnancy                  | Abortion is only available in limited circumstances, namely, the pregnancy is a danger to your life or the health of the fetus  | Surgical  | Doctor only  |

1.6. ABORTION METHODS:

All women have the right to access free, safe, and legal abortions at government hospitals or clinics during the first three months of pregnancy.

In this early stage, an abortion can be performed by a doctor, a trained registered nurse, or a midwife, making it easier to access the procedure.

Timing is crucial — the further along the pregnancy is, the harder it becomes to access abortion services.

MEDICAL ABORTIONS

Medical abortions involve taking medication (pills) and are generally available up to 10 weeks after your last period. In some areas, they may be available up to 13 or even 18 weeks. This process can take a few days and may feel similar to a heavy period.

The procedure involves two drugs: mifepristone and misoprostol. Mifepristone is taken first to stop the embryo from growing, followed by misoprostol two days later to induce contractions and expel the embryo. The entire process is very effective, but if the pills don't work completely, a surgical abortion might be necessary.

If you've had a caesarean section before, a medical abortion may not be suitable. It's also important to have a follow-up visit 10-14 days after taking the medication to confirm the abortion is complete.

Steps for a Medical Abortion

Step 1: At the clinic, your doctor or nurse will explain the process, review your medical history, perform a pregnancy test, and possibly do an ultrasound if needed. After this, you will take the first pill (mifepristone) at the clinic. You may experience light cramps and bleeding. Very few women will have a complete abortion before taking the second medicine so it's important to complete the process.

Step 2: The second set of pills (misoprostol) is taken at home, usually a day later. You'll need to swallow or place the tablets under your tongue or to the side of your cheek in your mouth - 2 to 4 tablets. These pills should be taken in the morning before eating or drinking. Within two hours, you can eat and drink. Expect strong cramps and heavy bleeding, similar to a heavy period. Bleeding will continue for about two weeks, and you may see blood clots and tissue. Taking pain medication is advisable. The heaviest bleeding will happen while the abortion occurs, usually within the first 6 hours after taking the second tablet.

Step 3: A follow-up visit is necessary 10-14 days after taking the first pill to confirm the abortion is complete. Cramping and bleeding indicate the treatment is working, but it's essential to return to the clinic to ensure the pregnancy has ended. If it hasn't, a surgical procedure may be needed.

Possible Side Effects of a Medical Abortion

Common side effects include cramping and bleeding, which are expected and indicate that the medication is working. Some bleeding or spotting may continue for as long as 12 days. You may also experience nausea, vomiting, diarrhoea, headaches, dizziness, chills, or fever. These symptoms usually don't last long, and pain medication can help.

Can You Return to Work After Taking the Medication?

It's best to take the day off when you take the second set of pills to stay in bed, use a hot water bottle, and rest. The heaviest bleeding typically occurs on this day. You should be near a bathroom and other comforts. You can return to work the next day but continue to care for yourself by changing your sanitary pad regularly and taking pain medication if needed.

Surgical Abortions

Surgical abortions are performed by a nurse (up to 12 weeks) or a doctor (12-20 weeks). This is a same-day procedure, usually done at a clinic or hospital. You may receive medical abortion medication to begin opening your womb, which can cause cramping.

Surgical abortions typically cause less bleeding than medical abortions. Be sure to discuss pain management options with your healthcare provider before the procedure.

There are two common methods:

1. Vacuum Aspiration: This method uses a suction device to remove the contents of the uterus. It can be done with an electric or handheld device.
2. Dilation and Evacuation (D&E): This method is used after 15 weeks and is mostly done after an incomplete abortion or in late pregnancy.

Important: “Womb scraping” or Dilation and Curettage (D&C) is an outdated method and should no longer be used. It may be a sign of an illegal service provider if this option is recommended to you.

SECTION 2: OBSTRUCTORS TO ACCESS

2.1 OVERVIEW OF OBSTRUCTORS TO ACCESS

You have the right to access abortion services.

Should anyone try to prevent you from or deny you access to these services they are guilty of an offence under the Choice of Termination of Pregnancy Act and should be reported to protect your and other women’s right to access.

You can report any hospital staff member from the security guard to the nurses and managers. Normal people can also be guilty of this offence and be reported for acting against the law.

You can report people to either the hospital, the police or NGOs like ours that can help you with the reporting process or anonymously report it on your behalf. Your experience will still be confidential even if you file a report.

2.2 RELIGIOUS REFUSALS

Sometimes healthcare providers or hospital staff might refuse to perform abortions based on their personal beliefs. This should not be happening and it should never mean that you can’t access the service you have a right to.

Should this happen to you:

- They must still refer you to another provider who can help you.
- They cannot delay your access to care.
- They cannot refuse to assist you in an emergency
- Immediately report them to the hospital or an NGO like ours.

Refusals are not legal and are a violation of your right to access. Report them immediately.

SECTION 3: ILLEGAL ABORTION FACILITIES & PROVIDERS

3.1 OVERVIEW OF INFORMAL/ILLEGAL ABORTIONS

What are Safe and Unsafe Abortions?

A safe abortion is carried out in compliance with the law:

- By a registered nurse, midwife, or doctor.
- In a designated or accredited facility.

An unsafe abortion occurs outside the regulated system, making it unpredictable and potentially dangerous.

These unregulated abortions are illegal because abortion is a medical procedure that requires trained professionals. Untrained individuals may use fake or incorrect medication or procedures, and they won't have the ability to manage complications. Additionally, unregulated facilities may lack the necessary resources and safety measures to give you a safe and affirming experience.

3.2 RISKS OF ILLEGAL ABORTIONS

Despite the law granting free access to abortions at public clinics in South Africa, many women still turn to informal or illegal providers due to several reasons:

- Health workers at public clinics may refuse to perform abortions or fail to refer you to another legal provider, which is illegal.
- Private legal abortion providers can be expensive and may be located far away or difficult to reach.
- If you are more than three months pregnant, only a medical doctor can perform the procedure, and there is a shortage of doctors offering these services.
- Many illegal providers operate because there are not enough doctors to provide legal

Women who cannot access legal services or run out of time often turn to the easily available illegal sector, which can lead to serious health consequences.

The risks include:

- Unsuccessful or incomplete abortions.
- Severe bleeding, pain, infection, or infertility.
- Damage to reproductive organs.
- Exposure to unsafe environments and people.
- Vulnerability to violence or organised crime.
- Physical and mental trauma.
- Legal consequences if associated with other illegal activities.
- Death.

3.3 HOW TO IDENTIFY ILLEGAL ABORTION PROVIDERS AND FACILITIES

Illegal providers often target women in desperate situations and hide the dangers of their services. It's essential to thoroughly research any provider before engaging with them or visiting them. You can call or search for them online.

Legal providers must have an HPCSA (Health Professions Council of South Africa) registration number and a letter from the MEC (Member of the Executive Council) to operate. You can verify the registration on the HPCSA website: https://hpcsaonline.custhelp.com/app/i\_reg\_form

Here are some warning signs to watch out for on their online profiles and advertisements:

- They claim to perform abortions up to or beyond 20 weeks.
- They only provide a cell phone number and no landline.
- They do not share a physical address.
- They may have an official website but have no license numbers on their website.
- They do not explain the methods they use or give you a lot of information.
- They only provide one type of abortion tablet instead of the two required.
- They will use often unlabelled medical abortion tablets, usually the same kind.
- They demand cash payments upfront and offer no other payment options.
- They may pressure you into proceeding and charge high fees (abortions are free at government clinics).
- They might offer herbal remedies or dangerous procedures.
- They tell you to go to a government hospital if problems arise and not to come back to them.

Illegal providers often:

- Distribute misleading flyers and posters.
- Have websites that appear official and sometimes advertise on Google.
- Operate secretly, making it hard to verify their legitimacy.
- May have unsanitary conditions or try to mimic official clinics.

3.4 WHAT TO DO IF YOU SUSPECT AN ILLEGAL ABORTION CLINIC OR PROVIDER

If you suspect a provider or clinic may be illegal, it's best to avoid them and limit contact. The situation could be dangerous, and it is crucial that professionals handle it.

You can report suspicious providers or facilities to the police, the Department of Health, the Health Professions Council of South Africa, the South African Nursing Council, the Office of Health Ombud, or NGOs like ours, which can help report the issue or do so anonymously on your behalf.

Your identity will remain confidential even if you report such providers. We encourage you to share any information you have to help prevent these providers from harming more women.

SECTION 4: PREGNANCY CRISIS CENTRES

4.1 WHAT ARE PREGNANCY CRISIS CENTRES?

Pregnancy Crisis Centres (PCCs) are organisations that present themselves as unbiased medical clinics or counselling services, but their main goal is to prevent people with unplanned pregnancies from accessing abortions.

PCCs often look official or place themselves near healthcare facilities to seem legitimate. However, they are neither licensed medical nor counselling centres and do not employ qualified healthcare providers or registered counsellors/social workers. They often target vulnerable women and girls, particularly around university campuses.

Because they often use false advertising, Not all PCCs are called “Pregnancy Crisis Centres.” They may operate under misleading names like “Family Services Centres” or “Pregnancy Resources Centres” to mislead and confuse the public.

Like illegal abortion facilities, PCCs can be dangerous for women because they are unregulated. This means they may engage in harmful practices, give out false information, and provide incorrect healthcare services. Additionally, the rights you have in licensed facilities—like privacy, confidentiality, and access to reproductive services—may not be respected in these centres. Some PCCs may even operate illegally, as it is against the law to provide healthcare services without being a registered healthcare provider or facility.

4.2 HOW THEY OPERATE

PCCs attract people by offering free services like pregnancy tests, ultrasounds, care packages or baby supplies. However, once you’re inside, they:

- Do not provide accurate and complete information about all available options.
- Spread misinformation.
- Use scare tactics and manipulation.
- Provide incorrect medical advice, sometimes lying about how far along a pregnancy is to limit your options.
- Delay abortion appointments until it’s too late
- Give misleading details about when and where you can access abortion services.
- Use shame, guilt, and judgment to traumatise women.

4.3 HOW TO IDENTIFY PREGNANCY CRISIS CENTRES

PCCs are skilled at targeting desperate women and hiding how dangerous they can be. It's important to do thorough research before visiting any clinic.

Legal healthcare providers and facilities must have an HPCSA license/registration number, which you can verify on the HPCSA website here: https://hpcsaonline.custhelp.com/app/i\_reg\_form

Below are common warning signs to look out for:

- They have an official-looking website, but no license numbers listed.
- They are vague about the services and information they provide.
- They offer free services and products like pregnancy tests or care packs.
- They pressure you and try to sway your decision.
- They suggest they can assist with adoption (only registered adoption social workers can legally do this).
- They tell you a free ultrasound is required before discussing options (this is false; ultrasounds are not a requirement for access to services).
- They have a number of negative reviews or complaints.
- They may have religious affiliations and show bias against abortion options.

Illegal providers often:

- Distribute misleading flyers and posters.
- Have websites that appear official and sometimes advertise on Google.
- Operate secretly, making it hard to verify their legitimacy.
- May have unsanitary conditions or try to mimic official clinics.

4.4 WHAT TO DO IF YOU SUSPECT A PREGNANCY CRISIS CENTRE?

If you suspect a facility or provider might be a Pregnancy Crisis Centre, it's best to avoid further contact and stay cautious. These situations can be dangerous and should be investigated by professionals.

You can report suspicious facilities to the police, the Department of Health, the Health Professions Council of South Africa, the South African Nursing Council, the Office of Health Ombud, or NGOs like ours that can assist with the reporting process or report anonymously on your behalf. Your experience will remain confidential even if you file a report yourself.

We encourage you to share any and all information you have on such facilities and providers to ensure they don't continue to endanger women.

SECTION 5: WHERE TO ACCESS SAFE & LEGAL ABORTION FACILITIES IN SOUTH AFRICA

5.1 OVERVIEW

Many women are unsure of where to find safe abortion services, how to get information about abortion facilities, or whether they are legally entitled to free services. This guide is here to help you locate your nearest abortion facility.

How to find your nearest facility:

1. Choose your region (e.g., Western Cape, Gauteng, KwaZulu-Natal, etc.).
2. Identify the stage of your pregnancy (e.g., 1st Trimester, 2nd Trimester, etc.).
3. Locate the nearest facility that provides the services you need.

This step-by-step approach will guide you to the closest, safe, and legal abortion provider.

5.4 USING THE WHERE TO CARE MAP

The information on facilities that provide abortion services in South Africa is always changing. The Where to Care map tracks these changes to ensure that the information is up to date. You can access the map by visiting <https://bit.ly/WhereToCareMap>

Please turn your mobile data service on and ALLOW location permission when asked to view the map. Please note that the map is zero-rated, meaning that it will not use your data.

Conclusion

Understanding how to identify these harmful agents and spaces is crucial for ensuring women can access safe and legal reproductive healthcare so we encourage you to share this information and visit our website should you want to know more about abortion access and where to access services.
